1. To learn oral and listening skills needed to express and understand communicative functions in English.	③、⑥〇
2. To have confidence in using English for real communication.	③、⑥〇
3. To enjoy interesting learning experience relevant to the situation.	③、⑥〇
各到達目標に対する達成度の具体的な評価方法
1. 2. Evaluation on the basis of performance in term-exams and communication activities in class. 3. Evaluation on the basis of performance in communication activities in class.
評価方法
1. Exam Result ... 60 % 2. Coursework ... 20 % 3. Short tests* ... 10 % 4. Conversation in Practice* ... 10 % (Oral Communication)
1. 60% goes to multiple choice tests that are usually given at the end of each term. Whatever the students get in those tests is reflected in their scores.
2. 20% Coursework is writing the conversations that have been learned during the term (twice a year).
3. 10% Short tests are classroom exercises that cover a lesson in the textbooks (two or three lessons) depending on the pace of the class. Students check their classmates.
4. 10% Conversation in practice or Oral Communication. Although its percentage is very low, if the students' speaking ability is satisfactory, I may consider giving them a better score and this evaluation may go beyond number two and number three.

連絡事項
In the 21st century, we face many new challenges. It is increasingly evident that the world is shrinking into a "Global Village." This is one of the challenges facing the youth today. English is now perceived as the most important tool in communication. By learning English their vital contribution in bridging the various gap and fostering mutual understanding among all the peoples of the world as one people in one planet can be truly relevant as we unfold the new century.
